

Forestry & Citrus Research (FACIR)
7372 Unit K
Chitungwiza
Zimbabwe

Phone: +263779200157 / +263777989856
Email: info@facir.co.zw
Web: www.facir.co.zw

THE BENEFITS OF FACIR MEMBERSHIP

FACIR established the national network for Agro - Forest Science Cooperation and unites member organizations and hundreds of individual researchers across the country.

Membership of FACIR is open to any individual, farmer or institution concerned with the promotion, support or conduct of production and research related to agro-forestry activities.

The benefits of FACIR membership are:

Unique networking opportunities

Make national and global connections, discuss and share research studies and projects, and cooperate with scientists from your field of expertise and other disciplines. Participate in a wide range of collaborative activities covering all main areas of core and interdisciplinary research related to forests and fruit trees.

International, regional and national representation

Take advantage of FACIR's penetration in international fora on Agriculture, Forests, Climate Change and Biodiversity Adaptation and Mitigation, for example, and benefit from FACIR's close cooperation with other scientific fields and groups of civil society. Present your unique developments and scientific work to policy and decision makers.

Eligibility to place news items in FACIR media

Make your organization and its achievements visible on the FACIR website and spread the word on meetings, vacancies or publications via the newsletter, the online calendar of meetings and notice board, the mailing lists and the newly launched FACIR Spotlights.

FACIR publications – Keeping your cutting edge

Enjoy timely information on latest FACIR activities, publications and events in forest and fruit production research. Receive monthly electronic newsletter issues a year free of charge and read scientific developments, meeting reports and announcements first hand. Get annual reports, meetings proceedings, training materials and brochures from the FACIR Secretariat. Share information through FACIR's extensive mailing lists.

Unrestricted access to the FACIR webpages

Benefit from unlimited access to FACIR's on-line databases including all pertinent contact details, FACIR's publications, literature and proceedings archive, and much more.

Opportunity to participate in NAFIS

Become an information provider to the FACIR-led initiative "National Agro-Forest Information Services" (NAFIS) and showcase your developmental achievements, events, publications, research and education opportunities to a national and worldwide audience.

Eligibility to FACIR awards

As member you are eligible to receive fruit production, conservation, scientific awards and awards in recognition of services to FACIR.

Opportunity to take a leading role within FACIR

Contribute to shaping FACIR's forest research Framework as a coordinator of a research unit, a member of the Board or even as your district or provincial's representative.

Contractual Production Opportunities with a guaranteed market

Take advantage of FACIR's contracting opportunities in fruit production and market your produce at the best price, timely payments, production assistance and many more.

Private Investments

Take the opportunity to invest into FACIR's businesses, including but not limited to investing into its clients' agricultural operations.

For more details email us at info@facir.co.zw.